CALGARY HEALTH REGION

Unit shift causes lay-offs

by Tamara Collins

Unit Three in Long Term Care at the Didsbury Hospital will soon close down; 20 of the 26 beds in it will be transferred to the new Aspen Ridge Sen-iors' Lodge, and as a result an unknown number of hospital workers will be laid off.

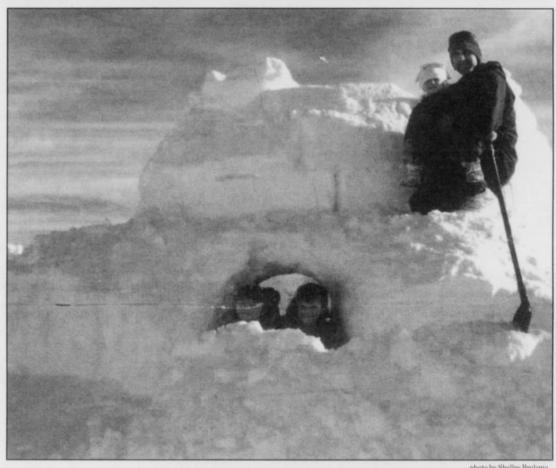

The 20 beds being trans-ferred to the Lodge will be the designated Assistant Living spaces, and the remaining six beds from Unit Three will transfer to Units One and Four.

"It was always the intention of Health Region 5 (David Thompson Health Region (DTHR)), to close the beds and shift them to the new Seniors Lodge," said Lori Anderson, director of rural health, Calgary Health Region (CHR). "Staff will be impacted, but we are still in the process of deter-mining how many. We will be following the rules in the col-lective agreement."

Hospital workers were surprised to find out on Jan. 28 that their jobs may be at stake with the transfer of the beds and the closing of Unit Three.

Marke Brolsma and his three daughters, Jessica (age seven), Emilie (age five) and Maggie (age two) work on constructing an igloo this past Saturday on the Didsbury Golf Course. Brolsma obtained most of the instruction on outdoor shelters from a course he took a few years ago at the U of C. He also enjoys building quincies and Scotlish igloos.

Site selected for MVC administration building

The site for a new administration building has been ap-proved by Mountain View County Council, during a special meeting, Feb. 3.

The new, single story building will be located south east of the Olds/Didsbury Airport, approximately 400 metres south of the Bergen Road, di-rectly adjacent to Highway 2A.

A service road will be built for access off the Bergen Road. Temporary access off Highway 2A could have gotten approval by Alberta transportation, but was deemed too expensive, by the building committee, for a temporary access subject to provincial transportation restrictions

'We will put in a service road that will be better in terms of long-term future de-velopment," said Councillor Ron Richardson. He explained, although this land isn't currently zoned as a business park, it is ear marked for potential future development.

Councillors Richardson, Linda Burrell and Charlie Van Arnam, along with Architect Linus Murphy and Building Project Manager, Wayne Milany presented the site selection to council.

This site is the best place, the highest point and flattest land on the property," said Richardson.

Too young, but drove drunk

A 15-year-old Didsbury vouth has been sentenced to 18 months probation, a 10 p.m. curfew and a $345 fine after pleading guilty to several charges.

The charges the youth faced regarding taking a motor vehicle without consent, driving with a blood alcohol content of .120 per cent and possession of stolen property stemming from a break and enter at the Victoria Square Mall.

Judge Kirkpatrick decided not to throw the book at the youngster due to it being his first offense. He ordered the young offender to avoid any known criminals and follow all household rules his mother lays down.

Beat up restaurant staff

A 22-year-old Olds man pleaded guilty to two charges of assault stemming from separate incidents involving restaurant staff.

Michael Nathan Jantzen claimed that alcohol makes him fight and that is why the incidents occurred. Jantzen pleaded guilty to assaulting the owner/manager of the Dew Drop Inn over an altercation involving his girlfriend on Oct.11/03.

The very next evening a dispute over a restaurant tab at the Olds Boston Pizza resulted in a male server being assaulted.

Both incidents occurred as the employees were trying to call police. Jantzen's lawyer said for him that he was raised in a family with a history of alabuse. This has fuelled his own abuse. He has been to alcohol treatment since the incidents and has tried to clean up his life

Judge Kirkpatrick said after giving him an $1150 for the two assaults, more power to you that you have done something on your own (for his drink-

Robert Paul White has pleaded guilty to mailing obscene matter and was given a suspended sentence as well as a year's probation.

The guilty plea stems from a complaint filed last August. The Judge also ordered that White stay away from the complainant.

Thompson calls throne speech "a joke"

By Shawne Mohl

The Liberal governments annual speech from the throne is all about re-hashed issues and promises which continue to be broken annually, says local Wild Rose MP Myron Thompson.

"(The speech from the Throne) was very, very un-ex-citing," said Thompson, following the speech last Monday.

Thompson says he was almost embarrassed for the Liberal government that the speech never even mentioned one, single word of the "Mad Cow Crisis" which is practically the biggest agricultural disaster to ever hit the indus-

"It's a disgrace to the new government for ignoring this very, very important issue which has touched all Canadinot just producers," he said.

The pre-election speech, how ever, did make mention of dol-lars and cents in areas which could ultimately win the Lib-erals some votes. The government says they are promising billions of dollars to be handed out for the environment, postsecondary students, munici-palities, and children. "It's a campaign platform for the Martin government," Thompson said. "This is some-thing I have seen time and time again every time it comes around to election time."

The speech from the throne, was presented last Mon., by

Gov. Gen. Adrienne Clarkson.
"This Speech from the Throne marks the start of a new government, a new agenda; a new way of working," Clarkson said in her ad-

Thompson believes this is untrue, and basically the only change is the party's leader -

now, Paul Martin.
"If there was ever one word in the English dictionary to be overused by this government it's the word, 'new' ... there wasn't anything new at all in that speech," Thompson said, in a irate tone.

What do the announcements mean to local residents?

Students who rely on student loans to attend post-secondary education will be allowed to borrow more money, depending on the students course load.

The Liberals say they will be committing $7 billion over the next 10 years to municipalities in the form of GST rebates.

The exact details on how the rebates will work haven't been announced officially, but it will mean an extra few thousand dollars for the Town of Didsbury and surrounding municipalities.

Family members missing from the picture are Karen Reinhardt and Carl Shantz. The Didsbury area farm is currently being operated by Dennis with the help of Royden. The land was homesteaded by Ireal Shantz, from Switzerland, in 1900. Isreal passed the farm on to Lloyd Shantz before Royden took over. Congratulations Shantz family.

expected to approve architec-ture designs at a special meeting held, before press time, Feb. 9.

Meanwhile Mountain View County Taxpayers As-sociation has been awarded a 30 day extension to present their case at Alberta's Court of Queens Bench, concerning the "not sufficient" ruling placed on their petition which asked to limit spend-ing on a new administration building; and delay construc tion until after the next municipal election.

"We were told to appear in court last Thursday (Jan. 26), we asked for an extension and we got an exten-sion, that is all we know." said Henry Kuelker, chairman of the petition commit-MVTA is expected to argue the sufficiency of the petition Feb. 26. They have retained legal counsel.

"We only had two days notice to appear in court, is that fair?" asks Kuelker. Kuelker said the exten-

"So we only had two days and two hours to prepare."

Kuelker explained their le-gal council told them that normal practices are a 15 day invitation to court, and they were granted the extension on that basis.

The rest we will leave up to our lawyer," said Kuelker.

In today's world people live hectic lives and sometimes forget to appreciate the people who help them along the way.

I remember when I was younger, every night before bed I would kiss and hug my parents. Even if I was upset with them, I would do it. I understood they would not always be there. My dad passed away when I was 15 years old, and to this day I am forever grateful for every one of those hugs and kisses. NEVER PASS UP A GOOD OPPORTUNITY...

"Love"

by Margaret Fradley

Often the month of February, with the once again the commercializing of cards, chocolates and flowers for Valentine's Day turns our thoughts to 'love'. How do we show love to one another? Love is a many faceted word. It can be used to express anything from food, clothing, fun times, trips, books, whatever the case may be.

If I were to ask for a definition of 'love' just spontaneously, what would our answer be? If I were to further ask how we feel we can best express our love, what would be our response. Is it an emotion; affection; a feeling; a strong lik-

The apostle Paul tells us that love is patient; kind; doesn't envy or feel jealousy; it is not boastful or proud; it is never selfish or rude; it does not demand it's own way; it is not irritable or touchy, and does not hold a grudge; and hardly notices when others do wrong; this puts a much deeper meaning to our word 'love' does it not. When we ponder over this meaning of the word, how do we stack up?

We are also reminded not to love in word or in tongue, but in deed and in truth. This gives us something to think

As I pondered these thoughts, I thought what a difference we can make, we can choose each day to have a thankful heart; we can choose to be content with all we have; we can reach out to others; we can choose to be more sensitive to the needs of others, as we meet them, talk or share with them. The opportunities are plentiful, have we the time, and the 'love'

I was able to convey to him that the people have endured hard times as a result of these issues combined with the extended drought," said ence. Unfortunately, he had no indication when the border would be opened," stated Thompson.

"The Ambassador did clearly state that as far as softwood lumber, nothing would be settled until after the federal election in May. However they were prepared to sit down at the table to find a solution.

The Liberals indifference on this issue was confirmed this week in the Speech from the Throne, which failed to mention any plans to resolve the softwood lumber impasse with the US. I thought the Prime Minister said he was going to raise the profile of western issues?" questioned Thompson.

"The Ambassador was very gracious with his time and in discussing the prospects of the new Conservative Party. He said he looked forward to some day working with them in government," concluded

Smarter than Jack

Dear Editor:

Smart animals have helped raise the equivalent of CAN $90,000 to help animals in Australia and New Zealand.

Their true stories were published late last year in a book series about smart animals called Smarter than Jack created in partnership with RSPCA Australia and the SPCA in New Zealand.

A special new edition of Smarter than Jack, about Canadian animals is now being compiled by Avocado Press Limited and in partnership with the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies. Publication will be October 4 2004. Sales of this book will benefit humane societies throughout Canada, both locally and nationally.

We are now after stories from the public about smart animals and would like your

Would you be able to publish an article asking for sto-ries? It would be great to get lots of stories from Alberta.

"We are looking forward to sharing this collection of humorous and heartwarming stories with Canadians. We believe that the book will be success in showing just how intelligent animals can be, and in raising funds for humane societies across the country," says Bob Van Tongerloo, CEO of the CFHS.

So, if you or your readers have ever been amazed by the intelligence of an animal, now is the time to write about it. This book will contain around 90 anecdotes about the humorous, surprising and intelligent things that Canadian animals have done. Photographs are welcome and stories can be about any kind of animal.

The close off date is March 31, 2004. Submissions can be sent online to submissions@avocadopress.com or to Smarter than Jack PO Box 819, Tottenham, Ontario, L0G 1W0. The release date is World Animal Day, October 4,

The objectives of the book are to promote improved animal welfare by highlighting their intelligence and to raise funds for animals throughout Canada.

The CFHS and their memsocieties will receive half ($9.00) of the retail price for each book sold directly to their supporters and half the profit from bookstore sales.

The New Zealand books have been created in partner-ship with the RNZSPCA and the Australian book has been created in partnership with RSPCA Australia. Three RSPCA Australia. Three books have been published so far, two of which have been bestsellers. Here's a true story from

Cat uses bait to catch fish

Smudge was a feral cat that adopted Alexandra Day of Auckland, New Zealand. He was well fed, but his instinct was to hunt, often catching rats and mice

One day Smudge took up a new sport. Ms Day was inside the house when she saw him hanging around the goldfish pond in the garden in front of her house.

He appeared to have something in his mouth; he then put his face down to the pond and dropped something into the water

Smudge sat there poised. intently looking into the pond. Soon the surface of the pond rippled as goldfish came to the surface. Smudge's paw shot out and into the water, making a small splash. His paw returned empty handed. Ms Day rushed outside to shoo him away from the pond. When she got there she saw the most amazing thing.

A blob of Smudge's jelly meat was floating on the surface of the pond, which the goldfish were hungrily nib-bling at. Smudge had gone fishing and had used some of his dinner as bait!

Chicken wire was soon put over the pond to keep him out.

Open letter to farmers

Dear Editor:

The news that the CWB will cut its staff by 135 positions between now and the end of July has not gone unnoticed in the farm community. Some farmers greet the news with fa-vour - "I'm happy to see the CWB tightening its belt just like I've had to tighten mine" -while others wonder if the cuts might be going too deep which of the services I use are going to be scaled back or eliminated?'

When the board of directors was searching for a new CEO in 2002, we were looking for someone who was committed to watching the bottom line - our bottom line, in fact, since we pay for the operations of the CWB. Adrian Measner, who was appointed as the CWB's president and CEO in Decemer 2002 was committed to taking a hard look at the structure of the organization to ensure that it was agile and responsive enough to deliver against our long-term strategy The board of directors fully endorsed a thorough review of the corporation and approved the actions stemming from it since, as farmers, we expect strict management of adminis-trative expenses and also expect accountability and transparency.

The corporate review was launched in April 2003 and it finally wrapped up in January of this year. The actions com-ing out of it are wide reaching and significant. Altogether, they will result in a reduction of 135 positions at the CWB and a savings to us of about $5.5 million. That means there will be 450 people corporatewide working at the head office in Winnipeg, including the field staff who live and work in communities across the Prairies, regional offices Saskatoon and Airdrie, the logistics office in Vancouver and the overseas sales offices in Toand Beijing.

The changes to the CWB will be implemented between now and July 31. The review involved a re-engineering of some of the CWB's traditional activities so that it can better meet the needs of farmers and cu tomers. The restructured CWB will be flexible to react more quickly to financial pressures on the farm. It will be able to take advantage of marketing opportunities more quickly and it will continue to work to-wards the objective of getting us the best return for our grain.

The review is part of our strategy of positioning the CWB to add value for us in every aspect of its business. If you have any comments or questions about the review, please do not hesitate to contact your local director or me.

Sincerely, Original signed by Ken Ritter Chair, CWB board of directors

Alberta ready to ramp up BSE testing capacity

Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development

With the arrival of its first shipment of rapid tests, Alberta today tripled its livestock disease testing ability, making the province's world-class animal and food safety surveillance system even better.

"We're now able to turn around livestock test results in half the time we used to," said Shirley McClellan, Deputy Premier and Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Development. "With $500,000 in laboratory upgrades and equipment, increased staff training and these new rapid tests, we're ready and willing to meet our commitment of testing more animals more quickly."

Previously, tests for Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy (BSE) in cattle, Chronic Wasting Disease in elk and deer as well as scrapie in sheep used a 'gold standard' immunohistochemistry (IHC) test.

Through a special permit from the Canadian Food Inspection Agency, Alberta is now able to order and use an internationally recognized BioRad kit from France.

The rapid test offers many advantages over the IHC test including increased capacity, and faster turnaround time due to increased automation.

The actual test only takes 48 hours, however, the samples still have to be received, processed and the test results verified, which adds some time to the overall completion of the test.

Alberta conducted 948 tests for BSE in 2003. As part of the national network of Transmissible Spongiform Encephalopathies (TSE) labs, the current proposed target for BSE testing of Alberta animals is approximately one-third of the national total of 8,000.

That target is in line with the increased surveillance measures recently announced by the federal government which aim to increase the numbers of animals tested for BSE across Canada steadily over the next two years to about 30,000 a year.

A state-of-the-art Level 3 Biocontainment Lab is also under development, with construction slated to commence in the spring in the spring.

The new lab will enhance Alberta Agriculture's ability to respond quickly to mitigate and control the damage caused by animal disease outbreaks and will also allow research to be conducted on diseases that require a higher level of containment.

"Even though we have increased our capacity to quickly identify and track animal diseases, increased BSE testing is not designed as a food safety measure," says McClellan.

"The best public health safeguard is Canada's current practice of removing specified risk materials, which removes 99.9 per cent of potentially BSE-infected materials from entering the food system."

In 2004 Tories must make the choice they rejected in 2000

Dear Editor,

1,500,000 Canadians cast their votes as Tories in Election 2000 rejecting both the Liberals and the Reform/Alliance. Reading the headline "Tory hopefuls woo Atlantic Canada (1) is most unsettling, for though facile to transfer the appellation Tory to the new Conservative Party of Canada, doing so is misleading.

All three leadership can-

All three leadership candidates were Reform/Alliance supporters, not Tories. All hold the neo-conservative values of lower taxes, a reduced role for governments in general, and particularly that of the Government of Canada.

For them greater decision making power ought to be in the hands of the provinces, the parts of our country, rather than the national government.

Specifics in the "Areas of Agreement Conservative Party of Canada Partial Policy Statement" (2) such as referendums and "an equal Senate" reflect Reform/Alliance directions, not those of Tories, yet they have been agreed to by those who expedited the merger with the Alliance. The name Progressive Conservative is gone from national politics.

The Conservative Party of Canada owns the brand name Conservative.

The Canadian Press article stating that John Herron, elected as a Progressive Conservative, a Tory "has refused to join the new Conservative Party of Canada" (3) illustrates the incongruousness of having Tory Party applied to it as well.

In 2004 Tories must make the choice they rejected in 2000, voting for the Liberals and the Conservative Party of Canada, which to many is the re-re-named Reform/Alliance. It will most certainly not be between the Liberals and the Tory Party, for that choice is no longer available to them.

Yours truly, Joe Hueglin (1) Tory hopefuls woo Atlantic Canada

For persons in poverty, the need is year-round

Dear Editor

Albertans are renowned for their charitable spirit and the Christmas holiday inspired giving. The rally from social agencies was met in abundance for food, clothing and gifts that were distributed to persons in need. But for persons in poverty, the need is year-round.

Social workers see poverty as a growing concern. Family costs for education, utilities and housing continue to grow at a rate in excess of incomes; Alberta maintains among; the lowest minimum wage levels in Canada and income security levels below value prior to 1993.

Community charity is admirable in alleviating the effects of poverty but it should not replace government's responsibility to Albertans. Alberta needs public policy that adequately addresses the needs of the poor and disadvantaged.

Wild Horses Snared

by Carla Victor

Wild Horses of Alberta (WHOA) Society a $500 reward for informa tion identifying unknown culprits who snared free roaming horses near the Red Deer River Ranger Station, west of Sundre, some time during the last week of January or first week of February.

Snaring is the most inhumane way of trapping, said WHOA president Bob Henderson, who is disgusted this latest infraction against free roaming horses

A snare is a lassoe rope left on the ground and anchored to a tree. Horses step into the snare catching their eg.

"This is an extremely cruel and inhumane method of capture. The horse strug-gles and fights desperately, as any wild animal would and runs the risk of break their leg,

Henderson, an Olds resident and former City of Calgary police officer.

Alberta horse capture regulations specifically pro-hibit the use of snares in capturing free roaming horses. Regulations stipulate who is permitted to roundup and capture free roaming horses from November to January 31.

There were no permits is sued in that area for the end of January.

Henderson said culprits cut through a fence allowing them access to the horse trail.

A white dodge dual wheeled truck, towing a silver trailer, was seen parked in the area around the time of the offense.

Henderson believes whomever the culprits are they did this out of cruelty, t necessity. "The price of horse meat is way down at auction mar-kets right now, the market is overloaded with horses sold for slaughter. These horses that were snared for meat aren't worth any real value. I think these guys did it out of spite, Henderson.

The Alberta Government is currently reviewing horse capture regulations.
WHOA has recently submitted recommendations, regarding free roaming horses, to the Rangeland Management Branch of the Province's Department of Sustainable Resource Development.

Some of WHOA's recommendations, for protection of this species, are:

Protection encompasses all free roaming horses in Alberta, not limit-ing protection to horses roaming on crown land.

2. Free roaming horses be placed under the jurisdiction of fish and wildlife of-ficers who are already in place to enforce violations under provincial legislation. They recommend the roles of livestock identification serv ices and public lands and forests division (who currently monitor free roaming horses) be clearly defined to monitor specific, alleged trouble, herds.

3. Limit number of licenses or number of horses per license, this effective management would ensure that their numbers do not increase to a point where they become a detriment to their environment.

WHOA is not against horse capture and sees it as an effective way to manage numbers of free roaming horses. They do suggest horses be put up for adoption, rather than sent to slaughter houses.

4. Enhance enforcement provisions. 'That is our biggest conern," said Henderson. Even if these snare guys are caught there is nothing that will happen to them, the current legislation has no teeth

If WHOA's recommendation is accepted Fish and Wildlife Conservation Offic-ers would have full power to investigate and prosecute violators to the act.

Sufficient penalties would also act as a deterrent to those who wished to contra-

WHOA was formed in 2002 after the gruesome dis-covery of the remains of two free roaming horses. These horses were found shot, cut in half and gutted.

The perpetrator(s) remain at large.

"This latest incident clearly outlines the need for changes and the ability to enforce violations to the laws governing these wild horses," said Henderson.

WHOA and the province estimates there are 300 free roaming horses in Alberta, down from 1,100 estimated in the 1980's.

At The Kitchen Table

by Noreen Olson

Last week, when I had business in an office that employs several nice looking young women, I noticed that the person who was assisting me was having what looked like the world's worst "bad hair" day. I was feeling embarrassed and sorry for her until I noticed that several of the other young women had hairdos almost as bad. Their hair was uniformly matted, dead, dull and stiff looking and many of them sported lackluster stripes in varying tones. If they are all wearing it, it's in style, I reasoned, and I wondered if the style had a name. I don't suppose "The Dead Badger Look " would send women rushing off to make appointments with their favorite hairdresser, nor would "Road Kill" which was the only other really descriptive name that seemed appropriate.

Why would anyone want their hair to look dead, dull and uncared for? Would ones significant other be inspired to say sweet things about a head of hair that looked like a deceased rodent? Would anyone, child, mother, husband or lover want to touch it? Maybe the style is a backlash against Valentine's Day and designed to repel unwanted romantic gestures. Maybe its an environmentalist thing and they are saving on shampoo and water. It looked dry and itchy and uncomfortable.

and they are saving on shampoo and water. It looked dry and itchy and uncomfortable.

I have become the regular recipient of a Victoria's Secret Catalogue. I have no idea why I get it and the likelihood of someone of my age and shape ordering anything from it is less than zero. There is a catalogue virus out there that is similar to a computer virus and if you even look at one catalogue some sensing device gets your address and you go on an ever expanding list. (At least now I know where the female detectives on CSI get their work clothes.) I phoned Victoria's Secret 1-800 number to ask clothes.) I phoned Victoria's Secret 1-800 number to ask that my name be removed from their mailing list but as I only got a computer generated voice that wanted my address and customer number I probably did not accomplish much. I may get two catalogues now. While I was still speculating about bad hair the latest Victoria's Secret catalogue arrived. Since hair is the largest thing a VS model wears one would think that they, if anyone, should be up on the latest trends in hair. I began to page through the catalogue looking for someone in a stretch mesh or daisy chain thong and matted dead hair. Not even one. Some of the hair was a little wild looking but it was shiny, healthy and clean.

Leaping from one extreme to the other I found the lat-est Harrowsmith magazine and looked for rural and coun-try hairstyles. I found one rather plain looking lady wearing a very long, single braid down her back but the rest of the people in Harrowsmith had shiny hair that looked as the people in Harrowsmith had shiny hair that looked as if it had been recently washed and combed. I glanced through a few other publications and I checked out hairstyles on TV. Nobody had a dead badger on their head.

I know that every generation feels the need to make their own mark and establish an identity separate from their parents. When I was in grade ten I wore my long hair swooped over one eye and my mother and several teachers, expred about it to the resit that even though I hair swooped over one eye and my mother and several teachers carped about it to the point that even though I wanted to change, I could not because it would have meant that they won. When I finally got a haircut it was so weird that it provoked reaction from not just my family and teachers, but my whole neighborhood. "Chopped it off with two rocks," my dad said in exasperation.

Maybe the nice lady is wearing her hair like that as a protest against some controlling person in her life. Maybe she would like to wash and brush it but can't because it's her badge of independence. In any case it's not my busiher badge of independence. In any case it's not my business, and to paraphrase Voltaire.

While I disapprove of your hairstyle, I will defend your right to wear it

Local girl survives rare surgery

by Tamara Collins

Crystal Meredith, local Didsbury woman suffering from a brain tumor, has had a miracle happen since her last surgery in Toronto which took place in January. Meredith's original di-Meredith's original diagnosis went from a lesion and nothing to worry about, to tumour, to AVM, to AVF, an Arteriovenous Fistula in the hrain.

All procedures at the Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto failed, after the doctors assured the family it would be no problem, very serious, but they had great pictures from tests and angiogram and they were told repeatedly not to worry. Meredith was told she may come out blind, which she agreed to, but they said they could do it.

The embolization on

The embolization on Jan. 26th failed, which Meredith was awake for; it took two and a half hours to get her IV's, catheter and tubes into her arteries because her veins are so small. It then took another six and a half hours in surgery having the procedure done using glue. Then the doctors tried three platinum coils they said cost $5000.00 a piece, and then a balloon technique. Nothing worked. They could not block off blood flow and it was too risky to continue. The size of the AVF went from 2.8 to 3.5 in two months.

"Again, we were told, though unsuccessful, they had much better pictures even though it was deeper than they thought," said Lynne Henderson, Meredith's mother. "They said they would operate on the 29th, remove the skull and go in to remove the AVF completely. They said things would be fine, again not to worry. Risks being the same, they should be in and out in four hours. After 8 1/2 hours, they informed us they got a late start but everything was okay. They then came and told us that it was impossible to remove as it was too deeply embedded into the brain. You can imagine what we all felt. We were in shock. My nine-yearold granddaughter was with us at this time as well. All the doctor could say was they tried their best and that they had not seen anything like it before. Hers was so rare and they would put a call out to find a neurosur-geon that may have dealt with it.

The family could see Meredith for minutes after she woke up in recovery ery.

"In the morning the neurosurgeon told her the news. We knew as soon as we walked in and saw her face," said Henderson. "It was just devastating for all of us."

The call went out for

The call went out for help and neurosurgeon Dr. Wallace and Dr. Karl Terbrugge at Toronto Western, who were leaving for China on Feb. 5th, requested her transfer and said they wanted to do the embolization. They work only with the glue and had done thousands before, and one recently, similar to Meredith.

"We were unsure, and Crystal said she would not have the procedure if said Henderson. "This is where hospitals differ. After the fact, we were informed Toronto Western is the best Neuro Centre and she should have been sent there first, though Crystal was treated very well by most Drs. and nurses.

I commend them all at Sunnybrook and Western, though a lot of communication problems are at both hospitals."

Dr. Wallace said that Meredith would definitely be asleep. They had not done an embolization with someone awake for 15 years and was not sure if removing the skull was necessary. Dr. Terbrugge was excited about doing Meredith's surgery. He scheduled surgery for 11 a.m. on Feb. 4th.

"Crystal was so upset and she was black and blue all over from IV's etc. in her arms and thighs," said Henderson. "They took more of her skull than we were told and has 28 staples holding her scalp together.

her scalp together.

Her brain is swollen and her vision is affected but she is not totally blind and nothing else is affected. She also has an infection in her arm from the other embolization

IV

The doctors had a new technique using ultrasound and found her veins without problems. They operated at 2:45 p.m. and it took them only an hour and a half, and so far they say they were successful.

"We had no hope prior so we were all elated," said Henderson. "There were five veins that did not show in any of the pictures off the major, he got four of them, there is one left deep in her brain & he is unsure if that may cause later problems but so far so good. He thinks it may close off itself as no blood is getting to it. The glue blocked off the blood flow to that area. They can't remove it but he thinks it is under control.

We were told that due to disturbance to the brain with procedures done at Sunnybrook, their attempts helped slow or reroute blood flow when they did the embolization and made it easier for them. The doctor also told us they were in a hurry to get to her because she may not have lived through another day, as it was ready to burst."

Meredith's body is stressed and they are watching her heart and her vision problems which may or may not be permanent.

"An absolute miracle," said Henderson.

One of the hospital pastors asked to use her as a miracle story. Dr. Terbrugge has left for China, and if the call went out a day later he would not have been here to do the procedure. I will be forever grateful along with the rest of her family.

They say she may be able to go home this weekend. We will see. We have been praying all along but just in the past few days prayers from family, friends, and from total strangers have really made the difference.

A small crowd attended the Pot Luck Supper at the Cremona Gold and Silver Centre on February 5th/04. President Alan Reid thanked the ladies for the usual delicious supper. Alan welcomed guest Ronnie Rodgers.

Secretary Lita Reid read "Ain't it the Truth" about aging, read before reading the min-utes of the January meeting which were adopted with one cor-

Marie Olson gave her treasurer's report after which she gave the totals of last year's income and expenses We are an active club Charlie Bird moved a hearty vote of thanks to Marie for all the time she so generously donates on our behalf Under the Travel portfolio - Lila re-ported that any grant we might receive will not be forthcoming un-til March. Plans are being formed to attend the rodeo in March. Marlene Toner re-ported that Crib is goported that Crib is go-ing well with four or five tables usually in play on Thursday nights. Gwen Hatton informed us too that Bridge is continuing with two tables weekly. The regular teams are enjoying the weekly Carpet Bowling on Friday afternoons but more participants are always welcome.

Alan elaborated on a new plaque purchased for a memorial for deceased members. It's very similar to our present one and is in-scribed "Donated by scribed "Donated by Molly Turnbull in memory of Mac Turnbull."

Correspondence Marie read a letter from the Honourable Stan Woloshyn -Sen-iors Minister which she will file for anyone interested to peruse. The key note was for Seniors to notify his de-partment of any change of residence status, especially if a spouse needs long term care assistance. The Alberta Senior's Benefit will automatically up-date the file and review the best possible sce-nario for benefits. Please contact 1-800-642-3853. In addition if the Guaranteed Income Supplement is being received, the Federal Government has a similar program for involuntary separation for medical reasons. Please contact the Federal Government Income Security Programs at 1-800-277-9914 for more information.

Peggy Good has con-tacted Marie Olson to invite seniors to attend and/or participate in the Readers' Theatre which will be presented at the school on February 17 & 18th. Different classes will be participating throughout the day and an enthusiastic audience would delight the children.

Celebrate National Scout and Guide week

It's hard to believe that nearly 100 years ago, a man from England by the name of Lord Robert Baden-Powell and his wife, Lady Olave Baden-Powell, laid the foundation for the world's leading youth organization that is now commonly referred to as Scouts and Guides

It is, in fact, the very reason that this next week (February 15th - 22nd) scouts and guides across the country will band together to celebrate "National Scout-Guide Week"

Didsbury Scouting Group Representative, Judi Newsome,

Pool offers lessons for Lifeguards

Heather Caton Head Lifeguard Didsbury Aquatic Centre

Thinking about becoming a lifeguard one day?

If so, now is the perfect time to head down to the Didsbury Aquatic Centre and enroll in one of the many Advanced Aquatic Lessons currently being offered. Everything from Bronze Medallion and Bronze Cross to NLS (National Life-guard Service) and Water afety Instructor are being offered beginning this month. Head Guard, Heather Caton, says the Didsbury Pool currently has around eight lifeguards - a figure she says could always be higher. "We could always use more guards it seems. There's more than enough work to go around."

But Caton says even if you don't aspire to an occupation as a lifeguard, taking Advanced Aquatic lessons is still a good "The information covered is pretty valuable - especially when you're talking about safety on the water. It's really for anyone who has a love for the water and wants to learn more

All tolled there are five different lessons being offered this season. The first session of Advanced Aquatic lessons kicks off with Bronze Medallion on February 17th. "This teaches all the basic life-saving princi-pals," Caton explains. "That includes: water rescue, knowledge, skills and fitness." Participants must be at least 13years-old to register.

Next is Bronze Cross beginning March 1st. "This one is more for enhancing your water skills to the next level," Caton says - adding that sessions include instruction on such skills as spinal rescues and leadership attributes. All participants must be at least 14-years-old to take Bronze Cross and have passed Bronze Medallion

National Lifeguard Service Award (NLS) is the course that is absolutely necessary to become a lifeguard. "You must be 16-years-old and have passed Bronze Cross to qualify," Caton explains. "This course helps you develop an understanding of all lifeguarding principles."

Those wishing to become an instructor won't want to miss the AquaLeader Course. "This gets you ready for water safety instruction. You need it in order to teach swimming lessons " Observation hours are involved in all AquaLeader

Water Safety Instructor lessons will also be offered to those wishing to expand their teaching skills even further. Sessions are set to take place over the spring break (April 12-16). Anyone wishing more de-tail on dates and times for any of the above sessions can contact the pool directly at 335-

Welcoming two visitors

Janet and Dan Snyder are Didsburians who are missionaries in Nigeria. Both have been in the country doing the mission work since the late 70s. The Snyders send weekly letters telling about their day to day experiences.

Dear Family and

Ross Ford Elementary presents "I Met A Bully On The Hill

Ross Ford Elementary School will be pre-senting a special per-formance of "I Met A Bully On The Hill" on Feb. 13. RBC Foundation is sponsoring the performance by Martha Brooks and Moureen Hunter.

Calgary based Quest Theatre has been touring thought provoking theatre for 19 years. This performance is coming to Ross Ford as part of the theatre com-pany's Adopt-A-School program wherein cor porations are invited to sponsor productions for schools throughout Alberta. In this way, schools that would oth-erwise go without can bring in performances at no cost.

I Met A Bully On

"We have a number of programs in place to deal with bullying, as soon as we hear of any bullying incident we deal with it immediately."

-Dave Couves, Ross Ford principal

The Hill is an engaging, honest play, which tackles an important issue that affects many young people in schools and communities today - bullying. A young girl, new to the city, encounters a bully on her way to school. She enlists two new friends to help her deal with the actions of the bully. Through their ordeal they debate, discard, and revise coping strategies until a work able solution is found. At the end the audience is left with the mes-sage that, by sticking together, with determination, empathy, and the right kind of intervention by adults, the bully can be stopped and hopefully changed.

The presentation will take place on Friday, Feb. 13 at 1:45 p.m

"This performance will fit in nicely with our character building," said Couves. "I don't believe we have a huge bullying problem at our school, but we are always looking to stop it.

If you are being bullied, Quest Theatre and Couves recommend you seek help from a trusted adult, don't be discouraged, keep telling till you get what you need, learn to avoid bully situations, seek out allies who will provide peer support, learn ways to assist your-

Focus on the Family

QUESTION: What would you say to my husband and me? We are disciplining our kids far too much. Is there another way to encourage them to cooperate?

DR. DOBSON: The best way to get children to do what ou want is to spend time with them before disciplinary problems occur — having fun together and enjoying mutual laugh-ter and joy. When those moments of love and closeness hap-pen, kids are not as tempted to challenge and test the limits. Many confrontations can be avoided by building friendships with your kids and thereby making them want to cooperate at home. It sure beats anger as a motivator of little ones!

QUESTION: It has always been my understanding that That is, the commitment to each other should be independent of behavior, no matter how offensive or unfaithful. But your concept of accountability seems to be, "I will love you as long as you do what I want."

DR. DOBSON: You've misunderstood my point. The limitations of language make it very difficult to express this concept adequately, but let me try. I certainly believe in the validity of unconditional love, and in fact, the mutual accountability I have recommended is an expression of that love! For example, if a husband or wife is behaving in ways that will harm himself, his children, his marriage or the family of the "other woman," then confrontation with him becomes an act of love. The easiest response by the innocent partner would be to look the other way and pretend she doesn't notice. But from my perspective, that is tantamount to a parent's refusing to confront a 14-year-old who comes home drunk at 4:00 and Thet mother or fether has an obligation to greate a gril. a.m. That mother or father has an obligation to create a crisis in response to destructive behavior. Love demands that they do that!

I'm trying to say that unconditional love is not synonymous with permissiveness, passivity, weakness and appeasement. Sometimes it requires toughness, discipline and accountability.

QUESTION: I'm 22-years-old and am still living at home. It's driving me nuts. My folks are in my face every day. They want me to get a full-time job because I only work part time at a gas station. Why can't they get off my case and leave me alone?

DR. DOBSON: With all respect, I think it's time for you to pack. Many young adults like you continue to hang around the house because they don't know what to do next. That is a recipe for trouble. Your mother and father can't help "parenting" you if you remain under their noses. To them, it seems like only yesterday since you were born. They find it difficult to think of you as an adult.

The way you live probably irritates them, too. They hate your messy room, which would require a tetanus shot just to walk through. They don't like your music. They go to bed early and arise with the sun; you keep the same hours as hamsters. You drive the family car like you've been to Kami-kaze Driving School. They want you to get a job — go to school — do something. Every day brings a new argument — a new battle. When things deteriorate to that point, it's time

QUESTION: What would you and your wife do if your resources permitted her to stay at home after the kids were in

DR. DOBSON: I don't have to speculate about the answer to that question. Shirley and I did have that option (although we sold and "ate" a Volkswagen initially to make it and she stayed at home as a full-time mom. Neither possible), and she stayed at home as a turning mon. Yethers she nor I has ever regretted that decision. Now that our kids are grown, we would not trade the time we invested in them for anything on Earth. Looking back today, we feel it was especially important for Shirley to be at home during our kids' teen years.

last Monday's council meet-ing also praised the govern-ment's decision.

"This will help us out in some areas... it's a good de-cision, I believe," Colby said

Thompson says he was pleased to see some extra funding headed towards the municipalities, but in the long term this means less money-transfers to the Provinces. "I think the Mayor's are happy because they are fi-nally getting some money from Ottawa... but the Provinces will be in a crisis be-cause there will be less money to be put into educa-tion and health care... and the system will become even a bigger burden than it already is.

Other commitments that the Liberals have promised are to meet Canada's contro-versial Kyoto accord, a new Chief Public Health Officer for Canada, and assistance at helping aboriginals through education and skills development and work with First Nations to im-prove their governments and their government relations. The government says they have no plans to spend themselves into debt, while still maintaining the levels of service that Canadians "deserve" and "expect."

The throne speech also touched on putting forward more funding to assist chil-dren, and especially children who live in poverty - which is just a joke to Canadians, Thompson says.
"The Liberal government has made this promise time and time again, and nothing has ever been done," Thompson said. "Children poverty was at one million when I first came into office when I first came into office in 1993, and it has since in-creased to 1.5 million in 2003... To me it looks more like it's going backwards -not forward."

Thompson says his government will continue to act as the strongest opposition that they can and try to fight the Liberals off the

"This speech was nothing but blah, blah, and blah," Thompson said, who said he's very tired of continuing to hear promises for Canadians which are continually broken.

OBITUARY

ARCHER - Gerald Crosby Archer passed away January 29, 2004 in the Olds Hospital at the age of 74 after a long courageous battle with Progressive Super-Nuclear Palsy. Gerald was born on December 3, 1929 in Didsbury to David Crosby and Ella Archer. He was raised on a farm east of Didsbury along with his four brothers and two sisters. He attended Gore School, and tried his hand at logging and road construction before returning to his life-long passion of farming. In July of 1953, Gerald married Margaret Atkinson. They were the first couple to be married in the current Mountain View Missionary Church. They worked hard together to build a successful mixed dairy and grain farming operation while at the same time raising their six children. Gerald loved his family, his animals and his land. He enjoyed spending his leisure time with family and friends, reading, playing horseshoes and later in his life travelling to Europe, Australia, New Zealand and eastern Canada. Gerald will be forever remembered for his strength, his wonderful sense of humour and his calm and quiet good nature, as Gerald was not a person to complain when the going got tough. Gerald was predeceased by his wife Margaret in 2001, father Crosby and mother Dorothy in 1994, his sister Joyce in 1984 and his birth mother Ella in 1935. Gerald leaves to mourn his six children, Janet (Stan) Mooers of Baltimore, ON; Diane (Andy) Nisbet of Bowden; Kelvin (Anne) Archer of Didsbury: Laureen St. John of Didsbury; Devon (Kathy) Archer of Didsbury; Nancy (David) Lanz of Olds; 17 grandchildren Jennifer, Robert and Cheryl Mooers: Lynnette and Rex Nisbet; Nathan, William, Thomas, Garreth and Josh Archer; Sean and Kendra Milne; Logan, Carissa and Jessica Archer; Katryna and Keith Lanz. Gerald is also survived by four brothers, Donald (Betty) of Calgary, Keith (Kay) of Calgary, Norman (Marybelle) of Ontario, Walter (Christina) of Saskatchewan; one sister Donna Hiebert (Orlando) of Manitoba; as well as numerous aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, cousins and friends. Funeral services were held on Tuesday, February 3, 2004 at 2:00 p.m. in the Zion Evangelical Missionary Church, Didsbury with Pastor John Lucas officiating Interment followed in the Didsbury Cemetery. Memorial donations may be made directly to the charity of one's choice. As a tribute to Gerald Archer, a tree will be planted in the Heartland Tree Memorial Park (Olds). Heartland Funeral Services Ltd. (Olds Funeral Home & Crematorium) entrusted with arrangements.

EDINGER - Maynard Edinger was born in Meadstead, Sask. on July 8, 1935 as the eldest of four children born to Phillip and Marian Edinger. He grew up on a farm 10 miles west of Battleford, Sask, until the age of fourteen when he and his family moved into Battleford. Maynard met his wife, Vivian, in March 1953 and they continued to date until May 27, 1958 when they said "I Do" before a Justice of the Peace in Red Deer, Alberta. It wasn't until 1959, however, that they moved to Alberta. It was in Didsbury that Maynard and Viv settled to raise their family and where Maynard began his 35 years in business for himself. Maynard started with a gravel truck that was contracted with Burr Tuggle in 1959 and then in 1965 expanding into road construction when he purchased his first grader. It was in the early 1970's that he formed the company of Maynard Edinger Construction Ltd. Maynard believed that a man's word and his handshake sealed a deal and for years operated in this manner. In 1992 Maynard retired from business and then in 1994 left, to enjoy a simpler life, back in Battleford, Sask. He settled just two miles from where he was raised, he kept busy working the land and raising horses. As of 1968 Maynard was involved in the ELKS, he was one of the first Charter Members. In 1993 he was given the award of "Life Time Honorary Member" due to his many contributions to the community. Today people still enjoy the results of his efforts when they use the tennis courts, Cipperly's and the Memorial Complex (curling rink) to name a few. Maynard's continual enjoyment in life was his family, his horses and guitar, it is with deep sadness that Maynard was taken from them on January 29, 2004, dying at his home in Battleford, Sask. from a stroke. Pre-deceased by Kelly (son), Phillip (father), Marian (mother) and Lovey (sister). Survived by wife Vivian, children: Anita, Marj, Shannon, Lisa (Walter) and Brent (Brenda) and grandchildren: Nathan, Kody, Lee, Charlyee, Joseph, Jessica, Dean, April, Laure and Micheal and siblings: Gail and Kimble. Being the simple man Maynard was, it was his wish to be cremated with no services.

MEMORIAM

Sheils In memory of Bruce who passed away Feb. 2nd - 1989 Those special years will not return When we were all together But with eternal love in out hearts You walk with us forever Always remembered and sadly missed

Your family Gladys, Lois, Ann, Linda, Grandchildren, Great Grand children and families

In loving memory of Roy E. Dowell who passed away February 6, 2002 with great regret, A month that we will never forget. We hold our tears when we speak your name. But the ache in our hearts remains the same May the winds of love blow gently. And whisper so you can hear, That we still love and miss you, And wish that you were here. Lovingly remembered your wife Gladys & families
